Why Was It

that Ayer's Sarsaparilla, out of the great number of similar preparations manufactured throughout the world, was the only medicine of the kind admitted at the World's Fair, Chicago? And why was it that, in spite of the united efforts of the manufacturers of other preparations, the decision of the World's Fair Directors was not reversed?

BECAUSE

According to Article 15—"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition, and, therefore—

Because Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine, not a nostrum, and not a secret preparation.

Because its proprietors had nothing to conceal when questioned as to the formula from which it is compounded.

Because it is all that it is claimed to be—a Compound Concentrated Extract of Sarsaparilla, and in every sense, worthy the endorsement of this most important committee, called together for passing upon the manufactured products of the entire world.

THE GARDEN.

Choked with ill weeds my garden lay a-dying.
Hard was the ground; no bud had heart to blow.
Yet shone your smile there, with your soft breath sighing.
"Have patience, for some day the flowers will grow."
Some weeds you killed; you made a plot and tilled it.
"My plot," you said, "rich harvest yet shall fill it."
With sun warmed seeds of hope your dear hands filled it.
With rain soft tears of pity bade them live.
So, weak among the weeds that had withstood you.
One little pure white flower grew by and by.
You could not pluck my flower. Alas, how should you?
You set the seed, but let the blossom die.

FAME WON BY ACCIDENT.

Bastien Lepage's First Successful Picture Was an Advertisement.

The great French painter, Bastien Lepage, was pursued by numerous disasters through his youth in his efforts to study art. His mother worked in the fields to keep that sickly boy at school. At 15 he went to Paris alone, starved for seven years, painted without success, but still persisted. He had just finished a picture to send to the salon when Paris was besieged, and he rushed with his comrades to the trenches.

On the first day a shell fell into his studio and destroyed his picture, and another shell fell at his feet, wounding him. He was carried home and lay ill and idle for two years. Then he returned to Paris, and, reduced to absolute want, painted chop fans for a living. One day a manufacturer of some patent medicine ordered a picture from him to illustrate its virtues. Lepage, who was sincere, gave his best work to the advertisement. He painted a landscape in the April sunlight. The leaves of tender green quivered in the breeze; a group of beautiful girls gathered around a fountain from which the elixir of youth sprang in a bubbling stream. Lepage believed there was real merit in it.

"Let me offer it at the salon," he asked his patron.

The manufacturer was delighted. "But first paint a rainbow arching over the fountain," he said, "with the name of my medicine upon it." Lepage assented. "Then I will not pay you a cent for the picture!" The price of this picture meant bread for months, and the painter had long needed bread. The chance of admission to the salon was small. He hesitated. Then he silenced his hunger and carried the canvas to the salon. It was admitted. Its great success insured Lepage a place in public recognition and his later work a place among the greatest of living artists.—Current Literature.

Some Railway Mapmaking.

"This won't do," said the general passenger agent in annoyed tones to the map maker. "I want Chicago moved down here half an inch, so as to come on our direct route to New York. Then take Buffalo and put it a little farther from the lake."

"You've got Detroit and New York on different latitudes, and the impression that that is correct won't help our road."

"And, man, take those two lines that compete with us and make 'em twice as crooked as that. Why, you've got one of 'em almost straight."

"Yank Boston over a little to the west and put New York a little to the west, so as to show passengers that our Buffalo division is the shortest route to Boston."

"When you've done all these things I've said, you may print 10,000 copies—but say, how long have you been in the railroad business, anyway?"—New York Herald.

How Lies Walk on Window Panes.

The microscope reveals the neat contrivance which enables a fly to walk up a window pane or defy the laws of gravity by gliding along, back downward, on the ceiling. The magnifier shows the foot to be made up of two pads covered with fine, short hair, each pad having a hook above it. Behind each pad is a bag filled with a sticky liquid which oozes out whenever the fly puts his foot down. The amount which is pressed out of each foot is very small indeed, but taken all together it is amply sufficient to hold the insect in any position he chooses.—St. Louis Republic.

Nero's Appearance.

In his youth Nero was remarkably handsome, but early in manhood his habits of dissipation made him exceedingly corpulent. To judge from his medals and the descriptions left of him he must have weighed over 200 pounds. His features were regular, but his eyes were so protuberant as to be almost a deformity, and he was nearsighted, so much so that he could not recognize his acquaintances across the street.

Perils of the Future.

Passenger (in chair car)—Where are you going, dear? Don't leave me alone here among strangers.

His Wife—Nonsense, James! Nothing will hurt you. I am going into the smoking car a little while. Read a fashion magazine or something till I come back.—Chicago Tribune.

Henry Clay had a voice of medium strength, but of singular purity. He spoke with a strong southern accent and in a pleasant, sympathetic tone that carried the audience with him from the start.

Wales was thus named by the Anglo-Saxons, the word meaning "the land of foreigners." The native name is Cambria, or "the country of the Kimri."

In 1889 the United States produced over 34,000,000 barrels of petroleum.

WAS A PHILOSOPHER.

A BEGGAR STUDENT OF HUMAN NATURE WHO HAD A SYSTEM.

Mendicancy Carried Out Upon Practical Lines—Why He Avoided the Rich—Stood Outside a Restaurant, but Never Begged From a Hungry Looking Man.

He was a wretched looking chap, so thin and clad that he was really an object of pity. He had sought a secluded corner at the entrance of a cheap restaurant near Herald square, and for awhile it seemed as if he had chosen the spot merely to escape the chilling blasts of the cutting wind. Many men passed into the place, but he spoke to none. Finally one who had just completed his meal came forth. The man started forward, hesitated a moment and then returned his former position. Soon another man, apparently in a great hurry, came from the restaurant, buttoning his coat as he walked. In a moment the poor fellow stood in the way and barely had he uttered his request for help when he was rewarded with a dime.

A moment later a group of young men in very high spirits passed into the restaurant. To an ordinary student they would have been just the right men to approach for alms, but the beggar saw them not. It was only to certain men returning to the street that he made himself known. It was but the work of a moment to pick an acquaintance with the fellow, and when he found I was interested he talked freely of his plan.

"I had to do a good deal of thinking about it when I first started in," he said. "I can't get work now, and when I have work I can only keep at it for a little while on account of rheumatism. When I saw I had to beg, I thought I might as well do it right or not at all. If you know anything about men's faces and clothes, you don't have to do any guesswork at all. I can tell long before I get near a man what my chances are with him, and if I don't think that it's ten to one I will get something I don't say him, for there's no good in wearing yourself out and getting common. Some fellows go along the street and try to touch every well dressed man they meet. They couldn't do anything worse, for everybody sees what they're doing and knows they are professionals and steers clear of them. The only time to go up against well dressed men as a straight thing, without regard to their faces, is when they are full and feeling happy over it."

"The average well dressed man or woman is the hardest kind of a person to hit. They do lots for charity, but it's in a different way—societies, schools for kids, kindergartens and missions, and they think they are doing enough. If any one hits them on the street, they shut them down for a professional. You have got to judge the well dressed people by their faces and general manner and let their clothes count for nothing. "Whenever I have to do any street work, I always select the people of the lower middle classes, who don't put on any front—women especially. I mean people who live comfortably, but haven't got any too much money to spare. Say, you may think I'm stringing you, but I would rather have one nickel from one of them than a quarter from a fellow who could stand it and had it to burn. Funny, but I feel just as sentimental about that sometimes as if I was earning it, and I would earn it if I had the chance."

"Now, you take this stand of mine here today. There's three men who gave me something—two nickels and a dime. I have been here half an hour and I've only struck five men. I missed two. Well, three out of five don't look like bad guesswork, if you want to call it so, does it? This is the cheapest restaurant in the neighborhood. There's the Imperial, Marlborough and all the other big hotel restaurants. I could have taken, but I'll bet I wouldn't have got a thing from the people who came from any of them. The men who go in here don't pay over 25 or 30 cents for what they eat, and I'm willing to take my chances with them right along."

"I always wait till a man comes out. Some people think it ought to be the other way, for the reason that a man who is hungry would be more apt to give out of sympathy for the man who was hitting him for money for something to eat. But I didn't figure it out that way. You see, these are pretty hard times, and there's more people in hard luck than there ever was before. Now, it's bad enough to be in hard luck, but it's worse yet to be hungry, and when a man is up against both games little things will bother him that wouldn't affect him at all if he had his stomach full. I reason that pretty nearly every man who comes in here is either in hard luck or else he is a miser who don't want to spend any more than is actually necessary. If it wasn't so, you know they would all go to the big restaurants in the hotels, for you know as well as I do that the right kind of a man likes good things to eat and nice clean service if he can afford it."

"Well, I am onto the misers, and I leave them alone. When the decent man comes out, he feels better for having had his dinner. He is ready for business, and life is a great deal brighter to him than it was half an hour before. I ask him to help me. He says to himself: 'Well, I feel pretty good. This fellow is in worse luck than I am. I know what it is to feel hungry. I won't miss the nickel very much,' and then I get it. When he hands it to me, he feels better for it, and he looks it, too, and if he has been doing things that are not quite up to the limit he consoles himself with the fact that he ain't such a bad fellow after all. And he ain't either. So you see there's two of us happy, and if there was more of it the world would be happier. Thanks, boss."

Then the philosopher went in to dinner.—New York Herald.

Lord Clive was thin and keen faced. He had the appearance of a man always worn down by lack of food and rest.

OLD BELLS IN NEW YORK.

Two Metal Messengers Whose Tones Have Sounded to Many Generations.

Whether it be due to patriotic or poetic instincts it is nevertheless true that a famous old bell always arouses a sentimental feeling. Its very presence suggests a story—the glad cry of liberty, the joyous peals of wedding festivities, the somber tones of funeral processions. Weather stained and hoary, an old bell seems like a messenger of fate. Hence it is not to be wondered at that the bell in the yard of the Collegiate church, at Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, daily attracts a throng of inquiring faces, closely pressed against the high iron railing surrounding the church.

From the quaint Latin inscription on the bell one learns that it was sent in 1755 by the people of Amsterdam as a gift offering to the North church in New York, then at Fulton and William streets, where it had been erected in 1638.

Hanging high above the city, at Forty-eighth street and Fifth avenue, is another link that binds us to the past. This great bell bears this Dutch inscription: "Bon leegat aan de Neederdentsche Kerk, New York, 1731."

It appears from the old will of Colonel Abraham de Peyster that he ordered a bell to be made in Holland for the Middle church, then occupying the site of the old fort at the Battery. The people of Holland were so pleased at being thus remembered by one of their number in America that a great number of coins were thrown into the smelting pot which contained the metal for the bell as an evidence of their appreciation. During the Revolution the Middle church was put to strange uses. Removing the pulpit, gallery, pews and flooring, the British dragoons converted it into a riding academy.

John Ochsant was granted permission from Commander in Chief Lord Howe to remove the De Peyster bell to a place of safety. Accordingly, in the most unobtrusive manner possible, the bell was sent to Chambersburg, Pa.

When peace was restored, the bell was hung in the steeple of the Middle church, afterward leased to the federal government for postoffice purposes, and which many remember as the old Post-office building. A little more journeying and the De Peyster bell reached its present haven.

The Collegiate consistory carefully preserve the relics of their several churches. A pewter plate bearing the date 1769 and giving a history of the old North church is stored away with a charter granted in 1696 by William III empowering them to incorporate themselves in New York. Here, too, is zealously guarded the old will of John Harpending, now yellow with age, bequeathing, in 1723, much of his land to the Collegiate corporation.—New York Herald.

HIS SMILE WENT WITH THE POSE.

The Model in the Life Class Smiled Simply For the Sake of Art.

An amusing incident occurred not long ago in a well known New York art school. The girl students were drawing from life a study of the "Dancing Faun." A good looking Italian boy was the model, and as he assumed the requisite pose his face became wreathed in smiles. He was gazing directly at the class, and each girl imagined the smile was directed at her.

"How very embarrassing," said a Long Island girl. "I wish to goodness he wouldn't grin at me."

In spite of the indignant glances cast at him the son of Italy continued to smile at the blushing girls.

Presently a stolid German girl looked up and noticed the smile, which she imagined was aimed directly at her.

"You schtopp datt schmilien. We don't want you to schmilie at us." The boy's figure instantly straightened up, and he stood before the class the very impersonation of offended dignity as he said:

"Ladies, I no smile at any one. I pose to you as 'Dancing Faun.' Ze smile goes vizz zo pose."—New York World.

The Courtship of Miles Standish.

Encouraged by the hearty welcome given to these two American poems, Longfellow, in 1858, published a third, "The Courtship of Miles Standish."

In this he told no pathetic tale of parted lovers, nor did he draw on the quaint lore of the red men. He took his story from the annals of his own ancestors, the sturdy founders of New England. As it happened, the progenitor of his fellow poet, Bryant, was a direct descendant of John Alden and Priscilla, the Puritan maiden, whose wooing he narrated. "The Courtship of Miles Standish" is only less popular than its predecessors, "Evangeline" and "Hiawatha." All three have been taken to heart by the American people, all were composed during the brightest years of the poet's life, when his family were growing up about him, when he was in the full possession of his powers and had already achieved fame.—Professor Brandor Matthews in St. Nicholas.

Lablache's Voice.

Lablache had the most magnificent bass voice ever known to the lyric stage. It had a compass of two octaves, from E flat below to E flat above the bass staff. He was a man of prodigious size and strength, and his voice was proportioned to his physical dimensions. Nothing was able to overcome or drown it, and through the tones of the largest chorus it boomed out as lustily as though alone. More than once he broke a window pane by the strength of the vibrations caused by his monstrous voice.

TRAGEDY AT PETALUMA.

Mrs. Corbett Mangled Beneath the Cars—Thrown from a Buggy Under the Moving Wheels.

As J. H. Corbett and wife were driving near the depot in Petaluma Wednesday evening their horse became unmanageable and dashed the vehicle into a moving train, killing Mrs. Corbett. Mr. Corbett was picked up unconscious, but otherwise uninjured, while the horse was cut and torn in a most horrible manner and the buggy smashed into bits, says the Santa Rosa Democrat.

The accident happened about 5:15 o'clock Wednesday evening. A gravel train engaged in hauling gravel to ballast the road near Healdsburg had been switching and was pulling out of the station with bell ringing and at a considerable rate of speed, when the buggy driven by Mr. and Mrs. Corbett, with a young horse attached, which had become frightened, dashed alongside the train, the shock throwing Mrs. Corbett out of the buggy and between the flat cars, several of which passed over her, severing both limbs and otherwise injuring her, causing instant death.

Mr. Corbett was thrown out and picked up unconscious, but recovered in a few minutes and excepting some slight bruises was otherwise uninjured. The horse continued its mad career alongside the train when it was caught by the engine and literally torn in pieces. Bystanders looked on horror-stricken, but unable in any way to avert the distressing accident. They say, however, that the train men were in no way to blame. The engine was No. 13, with Billy Eddy engineer and fireman Provine in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Corbett were natives of Scotland, but had for years been highly respected residents of Petaluma and have a large circle of friends who sincerely deplore the sad accident.

The remains of Mrs. Corbett were removed to her late residence and Coroner Young notified, who held an inquest on the body Thursday.

DYSPEPSIA.

K. W. JOY COMPANY—Gentlemen: I have taken your Vegetable Sarsaparilla and can say I have never seen anything equal to it. I have suffered, ten years with dyspepsia, not being able to eat anything but milk and brown bread. Life was nothing but misery for me. Now I have a good appetite, can eat anything I wish and feel no disagreeable effects from it. I wish I could tell all dyspeptics and urge them to try your Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Signed, MR. JOHN TIMOTHY, Forbestown, Cal.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn., says: "Shiloh's Vitalizer saved my life." I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble it excels. Price 75cts.

Ballington Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, and his wife have applied for citizenship papers in Jersey City.

Poor Indeed!

The prospect of relief from drastic cathartics for persons troubled with constipation is poor indeed. True they act upon the bowels, but this they do with violence and their operation tends to weaken the intestines and is prejudicial to the stomach. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an effective laxative, but it neither gripes nor enfeebles. Furthermore, it promotes digestion and a regular action of the liver and the kidneys. It is an efficient barrier against and remedy for malarial complaints and rheumatism and is of great benefit to the weak, nervous and aged. As a medicinal stimulant it cannot be surpassed. Physicians cordially recommend it and its professional endorsement is fully borne out by popular experience. Appetite and sleep are both improved by this agreeable invigorant and alterative.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

K. W. JOY COMPANY—Gentlemen: I have suffered from a nervous prostration from financial losses. My liver, stomach and bowels have been very inactive but since taking your remedy I am entirely well. All business men and women should use it. Please publish. Signed, MR. WM. HENRY JONES, Butte, Montana.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

L. C. Prunty, Thrown From a Cultivator on Saturday, Dies From His Injuries on Tuesday.

L. C. Prunty, a wealthy farmer residing with his family two miles south of town, was thrown from a cultivator last Saturday and received injuries which resulted fatally on Tuesday morning.

The deceased was engaged in cultivating his farm with a cultivator to which was attached two horses. Suddenly the seat gave way and Mr. Prunty was hurled with great force between the tongue and one of the wheels of the cultivator and badly injured about the abdomen.

The horses, being very gentle, stopped before Mr. Prunty was drawn underneath the implement else he would undoubtedly have been killed on the spot. Picking himself up without assistance, strange to relate, he again mounted the cultivator and resumed work until sundown.

He then discovered that he had been more seriously injured than he at first supposed and Doctors Walliser and Davis were sent for. The physicians made an examination of the injured man and found the pelvis had been fractured and the neck of the bladder ruptured, and at once pronounced his injuries fatal.

Mr. Prunty lingered in great agony until Tuesday morning, when he died from internal hemorrhage.

The deceased had lived in this valley the past six or seven years. He came from Kansas with his family and purchased the Porter farm, where he continued to reside up to the day of his death.

The remains were embalmed and temporarily placed in the public receiving vault in Mountain Cemetery, pending shipment to his old home in Wamego, Kansas, where they will be laid to rest in the family burial plot.

The deceased was a native of Virginia and aged 73 years. He leaves a widow, four daughters and two sons. One of the sons, William, and two daughters, Mrs. Annie Cooper and Mrs. Dolly Farrow live in Kansas. Another daughter, Mrs. Alice Sharpe is a resident of the City of Mexico. The other two children, Carroll and Eva Prunty were at home when their father died.

The accident which caused Mr. Prunty's death was the second serious one that he had met with since coming to this valley. Two years ago he was thrown from a go-cart at the foot of Broadway and received injuries which at the time were thought to be fatal. The old gentleman, who was possessed of considerable grit pulled through, however, and entirely recovered his health.

Attracting Attention.

The marvelous hot white sulphur and gas artesian well on Capt. Boyes' place is attracting great attention all over the State, and it is only a question of time when the fame of this well will have spread all over the world. On Sunday last a number of distinguished professional and business men from different parts of the State visited Agua Rica and made a personal inspection of the well with the intention of subscribing for stock in the Sanitarium Company which will be incorporated next week for the purpose of utilizing the waters of the well for medicinal purposes.

The Steiger-Lachman Damage Suit.

The civil suit instituted in Judge Cheney's Court against Ed. Steiger by Mrs. Dick Lachman to recover $299 for alleged injuries received in an encounter with Steiger over rent due the latter by the woman, has not yet been set for trial. It is said that a change of venue will be asked for by the defendant, who claims that too much prejudice exists in this community against him to ensure a fair trial, and we don't know but what old man Steiger is right.

A new floor was laid this week in the billiard and card room of the Union Hotel.

COUNTY TREASURY ROBBERY.

Suit Commenced Against Capt. Stofen and His Bondsmen to Recover the Amount Taken.

On December 28th last a bold robber, who had concealed himself in ex-County Treasurer Stofen's office in the Court House at Santa Rosa, suddenly confronted the unsuspecting official and with an upraised bowie knife compelled him to enter the large safe in the office, which had just been opened, and after helping himself to all the coin in sight, some $8,415.79, of which amount $7,815.79 belonged to the county, the balance being the private funds of the ex-Treasurer, the robber decamped and made good his escape. Before leaving, however, he locked Capt. Stofen in the vault, where he was discovered several hours afterward more dead than alive.

As a sequel to the robbery, which created great excitement at that time, suit was commenced by the county Wednesday to recover from Capt. Stofen and his bondsmen the amount taken by the robber.

The ex-Treasurer and his bondsmen claim that the Treasury was unsafe and that he was in no way to blame when the robbery took place and should not be held for the loss of the funds. They have employed eminent counsel and will make a stubborn fight.

The bondsmen, who are numbered among Sonoma county's most wealthy men, are Con Shea, J. H. Brush, A. P. Overton, M. Doyle and H. Hitehook.

Should the county win its suit it will come very hard on Capt. Stofen, who would have to sacrifice his little home in Santa Rosa and every cent he has in the world to make good the amount secured by the robber. It would be a sad commentary on justice indeed that a good, honest man like Capt. Stofen should be made to suffer financial loss bordering on beggary for the act of a bold criminal who is now enjoying freedom with his ill-gotten gains.

Bicycle Notes.

Henry Bates, a member of the Sonoma Bicycle Club, is sick in bed cutting his wisdom teeth.

The bicycle race track around the Plaza has been graded and will be ready for use some time next month.

A number of wheelmen from different towns in the county took a ride around Sonoma Valley last Sunday.

Thomas and Lee Wilson, Austin Andrews, Erin Afton and Vane Andrews of Petaluma visited Sonoma on their wheels last Sunday.

C. C. Hackett and Mr. Proctor, two well-known business men of Napa, rode on their wheels from the above place up to Calistoga and crossed over to Santa Rosa and then down to Sonoma last Sunday. It was the intention of the gentlemen to return to Napa the same day, but they were compelled to remain in Sonoma over night as they were completely tired out.

The sweaters and emblem recently adopted by the Sonoma Bicycle Club arrived last Thursday. The emblem is a white flag with a red bar in the center and a red strip of cloth at the bottom and has a blue star in one corner, representing the original bear flag. The sweaters are dark blue and with this pretty emblem on the front will present a neat and dressy appearance.

Among other interesting features to take place on the Fourth of July will be the riding of Frank Weems for a mile record on his wheel over the bicycle track which will be in good condition by that date. Frank also leaves a challenge open to any local wheelman for a race on the same day. Now is the time for some of our "swifts" to go into training and win, if possible, the local championship honors by finishing in the lead on the glorious Fourth.

The Santa Rosa Democrat says: "The Sonoma City School Trustees have ordered that one of their lady teachers who rides a bicycle shall not wear bloomers." A prominent member of the Board of School Trustees, upon having his attention called to the above item denied the soft impeachment of the Trustees having made any such order. He says it is a matter of indifference to him whether lady bicyclists wear bloomers or sweaters. It's all the same in Dutch.

State and County Taxes.

The second installment on State and County taxes will become delinquent next Monday at 6 p. m. If not paid on or before that date five per cent will be added to the amount. Local tax-payers can either settle with Tax Collector Allen in Santa Rosa or Cashier Burris of the Sonoma Valley Bank in this place.

The Sonoma House is conducted as a first-class hotel by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stein.

Items of a personal and social nature are thankfully received at this office and will be edited by Marjorie Dow.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Poppe of Glen Ellen were in town visiting relatives last Monday.

Raisins for fruit cake are very much improved by cooking. Let them soak out slowly and then simmer until the skin is tender.

Fred. Smith of the metropolis was the guest last Sunday of Sonoma relatives.

Paris actresses wear paper lace, which by night looks as beautiful and delicate as the best of real lace, while it costs but a trifle.

Mrs. M. E. Spencer of the metropolis visited her daughter, Mrs. Granville Harris, last week. While in town Mrs. Spencer called on many old-time friends.

"It's all nonsense, dear, about wedding cake. I put an enormous piece under my pillow and dreamed of nobody." "Well?" "and the next night I ate it and dreamed of everybody!"

J. N. Junken and H. G. Perry were guests at the Union Hotel last Saturday and Sunday.

Judge Halstead, accompanied by his accomplished daughter Miss Bernice, sailed from San Francisco this morning for his home in Honolulu. Miss Bernice has been attending school in San Jose the past two years and having completed her education will now join her mother and two sisters in her island home. Judge Halstead, besides his extensive interests in the Sandwich Islands, owns two fine farms near Sonoma.

Lemon pudding.—One pound of sugar, one pint of cream, ten eggs and a little mace. Peel and juice of two fresh lemons. Line deep plates with a nice paste, turn in the mixture and bake.

Miss Mandilla Giggery, Principal of the Sonoma Grammar School, who has been quite ill at her mother's home in Santa Rosa for several weeks resumed her duties last Monday. During her illness the school was in charge of Miss Effie MacOakie.

Prof. Bishop of London was the most violent of the present century, opponents of women suffrage, one of his arguments being that the average weight of a man's brain was 1,350 grains, while that of a woman of the average was only 1,200. The professor died in 1892 and when his own brain was weighed it only tipped 1,255 grains, five grains less than what he had declared to be the female average.

Wm. Linehan came up from the Bay City Sunday last and spent the day with Sonoma friends.

City Marshal Robin is confined to his home with a severe spell of sickness.

Mrs. M. Mason of San Francisco was a guest at the Union Hotel Sunday last.

A young lady had given a spruce young man her photograph. He was enamored of it and made the remark: "Some day, with your permission, I shall plead for the possession of the lovely original." He did not expect this: "Then I shall give you the negative."

Farley Bros., the poultry fruit dealers of Santa Rosa, were in town on business last Sunday.

One of the most successful social affairs that has ever taken place in the pretty little town of Glen Ellen was the opening ball held at the Park Pavilion by N. R. Hansen on Friday evening of last week. About 9 o'clock all the gentry of the valley assembled at the hall, which was lavishly decorated with a number of American flags and the sweetest flowers of Spring. The participants captivated dancing to the harmonious sounds of music which was dispensed by Corbett's band of Santa Rosa until 12 o'clock, when a delicious supper was served. Dancing was then resumed and not until "Home Sweet Home" was played did the merry dancers think of proceeding homeward. Quite a number of Sonoma ladies and gentlemen were in attendance, all of whom report having had a very pleasant social time. The floor was under the excellent management of Glen Ellen's ladies' man, mine host Harrison of the Mervyn Hotel.

Mrs. Jas. Ruffner returned last Tuesday evening from a visit to the Bay City.

Prof. Chas. A. Mingo, the well-known Spiritualist of San Francisco, visited Sonoma Valley friends several days the past week.

Deputy Assessor G. S. Harris and Randall McDonnell were visitors at the City of Roses last Monday.

Mrs. W. E. Thomas has been quite ill the past week with a severe attack of la grippe.

John M. Hendley of Glen Ellen was in town on business last Tuesday.

Dr. Pierce, the well-known veterinary surgeon of Oakland was in town last Monday on official business.

Julius Poppe, delegate from Sonoma Parlor, No. 111, N. S. G. W., has been in attendance at the Grand Parlor which has been in session in Oakland the past week.

Capt. and Mrs. H. E. Boyes visited Santa Rosa last Thursday. A Sunday-school picnic will be held by the boys and girls of the Congregational Church on Saturday, May 4th.

Chas. Gerber has been confined his bed the past week with a severe attack of illness.

E. E. Oulevey and John D. Bosch, ex-managers of Kohler & Frohling's winery near Glen Ellen, attended the opening party at that place on Friday evening of last week.

Jabaz Swan, an ex-member of the State Board of Equalization, and wife were the guests several days last week of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison of the Mervyn Hotel, Glen Ellen.

The Capitol at Washington has cost more than $80,000,000. It covers three and one-half acres, the dome is 307 feet high and 135 feet in diameter and is exceeded in size only by St. Peter's in Rome, St. Paul's in London, the Invalides in Paris and St. Isaac's in St. Petersburg.

Newton and Clarence Ackerman of Petaluma were in town on their wheels last Sunday.

Hats for the little ones are seen in a variety of shapes. Leghorn flats and broad-brimmed chips with high crowns are equally popular. Flowers are used profusely in trimming them, combined with narrow satin ribbon in fetching little bows. For instance, an olive green chip was trimmed in bunches of pink bride roses and each tiny bouquet with its wealth of foliage was tied with pink ribbon corresponding in color with the roses.

Of all the happy events of this season's society there is none that parallels the pleasure and fashion which characterized the party that took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. Sherman of Lakeville, on Friday evening of last week. The event was a surprise party complimentary to Miss Alice Sherman and Miss Jessie Wyman of Petaluma and the Sherman Bros. of Lakeville and had the tendency of bringing together the youth and beauty of the surrounding country. Elaborate preparations were made in arranging the different apartments of the house and the spacious dining room was cleared for the special purpose of dancing. Artistic taste was displayed in decorating the room and sweet scented flowers were profusely used in the unique designs. The decorations were really superbly beautiful, but beauty was placed on beauty's head by the presence of many handsome and charming young ladies. A violin and piano dispensed sweet music while the merry dancers tripped the light fantastic with a graceful movement. Piano selections and songs were interspersed at intervals. At midnight the assembled guests repaired to the spacious supper room where a sumptuous repast was partaken of. After supper Mr. Joe Love entertained the guests by singing a number of sweet songs which were well received and loudly applauded. Everything went merrily on until 4 o'clock in the morning when this pleasant affair was drawn to a close and the merry crowd proceeded homeward with bright wishes of soon repeating the mirth and merriment which reigned supreme throughout the above evening.

The following were those present: Mr. and Mrs. F. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. G. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. D. Rodehaver, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gailhouse, Mesdames Tate and Critten, Misses Sherman, Wyman, Misner of Petaluma; Dowd, Johnson, Karr, Brown, Dowd of Lakeville; Tate, Smith, Biggins, Statler, Champlin, Biggins of Sonoma. Messrs. C. Sherman, Frank Dowd, J. W. Murphy, Joe Love, A. Sherman, A. Rains, James Egan, Joe Tate, Garrett Hyatt, Chas. Champlin, Randall McDonnell, J. W. Dowd, A. Champlin and C. Sherman.

A novel duster is a cover for the broom, to be put on when the walls and ceilings want dusting down. As a rule the servant ties on a bit of rag in a very slipshod style, but this bag is made just the shape of the broom of three or four thicknesses of cheese cloth stitched and bound with braid. Tape is shirred in at the top of the bag to pull up around the handle just above the broom head, keeping the duster in position. The second important feature of this duster is that it does not lose its identity when it goes to the wash.

Bilious Colic.

Persons who are subject to attacks of bilious colic will be pleased to know that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It acts quickly and can always be depended upon. In many cases the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.
